The Lacombe Agricultural Society

The Agricultural Society is hard at work preparing for great things for the first three days of October. Extensive preparations were made earlier in the summer in the way of erecting additional buildings, grading track and sport grounds, and generally preparing for the fall fair. The harvesting of a bumper crop has taken most of the farmer's time of late, but the final preparation for the fair has not been overlooked. Of course, everybody knows that in a display of stock Lacombe has simply to get out the animals of all the local breeders, and all that could be desired both for quantity and quality is at hand; as Lacombe gives first place to none for stock. But this is not all that is necessary to make a good fair. It is necessary to get the public interested in making the exhibit, and it is necessary to get a still larger public out to see the exhibit. Stock, vegetables, and fancy work will bring some out, but they do not appeal to everyone. It takes money to run a fair and the gate receipts must be made as large as possible. And no matter of how high class the exhibits, with only a few dozen to see it, the whole show would be flat.

In addition to the large prize lists published weeks ago, which gives many and valuable prizes for practically all lines of exhibits, a supplementary list has been prepared which offers a number of special prizes, some given by the Society, others donated by local business men, farmers and others. It would be well for all to scan this list, as it contains some interesting prizes. The majority are for stock, but many other things beside raising stock are encouraged. Not the least interesting is a prize for the largest family, but the ladies will say that even this for real interest must give way to the prize for the finest baby.

Those who think chiefly of the

Bentley News

The dance at the hall on Saturday night was well attended and an enjoyable time was had.

Messrs. J. H. and Harry Dameron and wives, auted to Clive on Friday night, taking in a dance at that place, returning on Saturday.

The railway grading is being pushed right along. The surveyors are nearing Lacombe with their work and are getting a very good grade. Mr. Gibson, of the firm, is expected to arrive from Toronto today with his wife, and will stay out in charge of the operations.

Clyde Everden arrived from Iowa last week with his family and a car of goods.

Special arrangements have been made with the C.P.R. to enable visitors from other towns coming in to the fair to do so cheaply, and reduced fares will prevail and it is hoped that this will make it more attractive than it would otherwise be.

The preliminary arrangements are now complete, but there is still much to be done. It is a community affair and each person in the district has a distinct part in the final success. It is up to all to bring out their best exhibits. It must not be made a money-making affair by the exhibitors. Bring out your best whether you get a direct financial return or not. It all goes for the good of the district. Then prepare to attend in large numbers and bring some enthusiasm with you. After all the chief part of the success depends on the way the people take it, and each one can help to keep the crowd in good humor. It is up to the general public to fall into line and make this Fair the best Lacombe has ever had.

The Scout entertainment which was given at the hall last Thursday night was quite liberally patronized, considering the inclement weather. A very nice supper was provided and partaken of by many, after which the evening program was begun by a band directed by the Misses Ruth Taggart and Alta Iddings. Then came the little folks with their numerous drills, all of which were excellent, but if one was nicer than the other, it was the Swedish drills, where twenty little girls dressed in white, their hair done with gay ribbons, making such a lovely picture as only little girls can. Went through the drill to the time of music to perfection, showing much care and training on the part of Mr. Loughheed, who had them in charge. The shepherd's drill by the young ladies was commendable, and the his daughter, Pocohontas, and his fairies were lovely. Wohattan braves were there, so also was Cap. John Smith, making a splendid tableau in a forest scene. But we cannot mention all the numbers, and all were excellent, even the Women's Rights Movement, which, as Mr. John Russell is aware, has a strong foothold in Rimby. The music for the drills was very nicely rendered by Miss Grace Everhart. The whole entertainment was fine from start to finish. The stage was nicely decorated, representing a forest scene, the floor being strewn with leaves from the trees which Nature has made gorgeous in color. Just now those who had the entertainment in charge worked hard and are to be highly commended on their success.

Rev. Loughheed left last Tuesday to again take up his studies at Edmonton. He has made many friends while here, and contemplated spending Christmas here. Rev. Irvin, of Mirror, is expected here this week and will have charge of this circuit the coming year, and it is to be hoped that every good citizen will give him their earnest support, whether you like the cut of his coat or the color of his hair, or not. Remember, it is not the man so much as it is the work he can do that interests us, and to do good work the minister must be backed up by the hearty support of his congregation in every good work which he undertakes, so that with our combined efforts we may make much gain in a spiritual way this coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Rycraft take this means of thanking those who so kindly furnished flowers and music at the church, also those who assisted them otherwise in their late bereavement in the death of their little boy.

Recent arrivals in this community are a baby girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Simonds, a little son at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Marshall, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Jabaz Hall, and to Mr. and Mrs. David Young also a son.

Allie Shirliff and family arrived here last week from Hagerman, Idaho, and expect to remain here, probably making their home at Edmonton this winter.

J. H. Bentley is laying the foundation for a new dwelling house. Corp. Wells, of Lacombe, was called here last Thursday to take charge of Henry Peterson, who had become insane. It is believed by his friends here that proper medical treatment and care will restore him to his right mind.

Miss Addie Allison arrived home last Friday after a prolonged stay in Lacombe. The secretary of the U.F.A. has informed us that a car of preserving fruits have been ordered and is expected to arrive soon. All members desiring fruit should be prepared to take same upon arrival.

A municipal boiler inspector was around last week inspecting boilers. Wish he had called here; we need a new one.

A nice social time was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks last Monday evening when a few friends gathered to spend a last evening with Mr. Loughheed.

Sunday School Rally

There will be a special order of service conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. E. Davies, and the superintendent, Mr. G. Henderson, assisted by a number of the scholars. Special hymns will be sung, and solos and duets by scholars. This promises to be a very interesting service, and a hearty invitation is extended to all parents and friends.

The collection will be on behalf of the Sunday school funds.

OBITUARY.
James Ballentyne, a well-known old-time resident of Lacombe, died at Edmonton yesterday.
D. J. McLaughlin, one of Lacombe's early settlers, died on Monday in Calgary.

FOOTBALL.
During the week the Bankers and Lacombe football teams have played two games. In the first neither team scored a goal, and in the second each scored one. Another game will take place shortly, and the Bankers say they will put it over the Lacombe team easily by two to one, if not more, as they have only been holding off to encourage the Lacombe team. Now for a fight.

SHOT DEAD AT ROCKCLIFFE RIFLE RANGE

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—At the Rockcliffe rifle ranges Saturday afternoon, Quartermaster-Sergeant T. Stanley Harris, of Ottawa, Fifth Princess Louise Dragoon, was shot and instantly killed. The fatal shot was fired just as several teams representing the corps of the Ottawa garrison were preparing to shoot the Dundonald match.

Team captains had just drawn for places and the first squads were taking their positions at the butts, when the sharp crack of a rifle shot attracted attention to the right of the firing line and Harris was seen to stagger and fall.

A physician was called but Harris was beyond medical aid. Examination revealed a terrible wound in the right arm and another in the hip, the latter being fatal.

The shot which killed Harris was fired from the rifle of Sgt. Robert Innes, of the Ottawa Engineer Corps, who was in the act of explaining to one of his men how to load the magazine of his rifle to prevent the cartridges jamming. He drew back the bolt and closed it again and the shot went off.

In addition to the inquest opened by Coroner Dr. Baptie, there will be a military inquiry into the affair. It is the first fatal accident at the Rockcliffe ranges. Harris is survived by a young widow and infant daughter. He was in his 25th year.

Convincing to Ladies— This Oven Test!

So that you may use less flour, we do what a home cook would do if she were in our place.

From every shipment of wheat delivered at our mills we take a ten pound sample. We grind this into flour. Bread is baked from the flour.

We find that some samples make more bread and better bread than others. So we keep the shipment from which the more and better bread comes. The others we sell.

You save money by using flour that bears this name. And you get better bread.

The Hand That Moves The Lever Saves 162-3 Per Cent. of Your Coal Bill

Here is the opportunity for the housewife to deal the high cost of living question a hard jolt without any effort on her part.

The way is to make sure that her new range is controlled by a Gurney Economizer, which will save 1 ton of coal in every 6 burned in an ordinary range.

The Economizer is to the stove what the control lever is to the engine or automobile. Without control neither is efficient.

With the Gurney Economizer it is possible to quickly vary the heat of the oven. Various foods require different temperatures. The Economizer keeps this desired temperature absolutely uniform.

It also means that when cooking is over, you may have a cool kitchen and still have your fire going—while you can have the fiercest heat in a few minutes by a slight pressure on the lever.

If you possess a Gurney-Oxford your advantages are innumerable. The Divided Flue means heat for every hole on the stove. The New Special Grate guards the lowest fire. The Broiler exposes every inch of the coals.

These features are exclusively "Gurney-Oxford."

It will furnish your kitchen handsomely—it will do your work adequately.

The Western Cattle Situation

(By George Lane, before National Live Stock Association.)

Now, there has been a great deal of talk in our country as to what governs the price of cattle. It has been generally said that the abattoirs and packing houses govern the prices. Now, I do not think this is true. It may be true in some instances where men get into towns or cities with small shipments, but our market has always been governed by the export trade, as until last year when we only had a little over eleven thousand cattle to export it was impossible for the packers and abattoirs to tell just how many cattle were in our country. Now, I know from my own knowledge that one packer, who two years ago got more cattle than he could use, exported them himself and his actual loss was more than fifty thousand dollars.

A great many people here know the live stock export man, and do not begrudge any man the money he makes out of export cattle. I have exported a good deal, and I hope I will never have to export again under the same conditions as before. Now, gentlemen, never get a steer from our country to the old country for less than $28, and from that to $32. Now, is this not an awful tax on any country to have to pay to get a market. The only remedy I know of is in the hands of the government, the railways and the steamship people, who by an earnest effort might reasonably reduce the expenses of transportation.

On the other hand, I do not think any man need be afraid to go into the export cattle business, as everything points to a continued shortage of beef in all countries and especially with our population growing as rapidly as it is.

Now I do not want Ontario to think that the west is the only wasteful country. At their winter fair at Toronto a short time ago I saw beautiful Shorthorn heifers weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds being sold to the butcher.

"In now concluding our report, we will not dwell upon the advantages which would accrue to Canadian farmers through the creation and establishment of a great sheep industry in the Dominion. These we hope will be apparent. We are under obligation, however, to set forth, if only in a general way, the outlines of a policy which we would recommend for adoption in the report of the important work. It will have been observed that all through the report much emphasis has been placed upon the necessity of an educational campaign being undertaken, in districts where there is little intensive knowledge of sheep keeping, and upon the need of a more thorough organization in connection with the production and marketing of wool. In order, therefore, to give effect to the proposals which may receive the endorsement of the Department and in order to give permanence to the policy which may ultimately be adopted, we would recommend the appointment of the Live Stock Commissioner's staff of two specially qualified officers to represent, respectively, the sheep and wool industries, as a part of the executive organization, and in order to effectively serve the interests involved, we think the Minister might wisely consider the means of initiating the work.

Following the adoption of this proposal, an extensive campaign of education should cover every phase of the production and marketing of mutton and wool. The more important features which our investigation leads us to emphasize as deserving of special consideration, we may now proceed to give in detail.

1. The general adoption of improved methods in breeding sheep is of primary importance. The haphazard system now in vogue has done incalculable harm in the past, and progress from the standpoint of both the wool and mutton markets. The undertaking of a business-like policy, pre-supposing close attention to the requirements of the trade, will alone save the situation. Scientific breeding must be understood and its principles practised. The maintaining of a single breed in any one locality is worth encouraging.

2. Farm management, in relation to sheep husbandry, is almost a science in itself and the subject should receive full discussion. The management of land, from the standpoint of sheep keeping, is practiced by only a very few breeders. Definite systems should be advocated. The advantages of special pasture crops should be pointed out and the danger arising from infested pastures made clear.

3. Sheep are, as a rule, poorly housed and poorly fed. Severe losses are sustained through lack of proper care during the winter season. Information regarding the successful feeding and management of a flock is badly needed. Dipping, docking and castration must be intelligently undertaken by the breeders.

4. The demands of the meat market are insistent but are disregarded. Age, size and quality are factors of importance. Farmers should be urged to form the habit of regularly informing themselves as to the trend of the trade in the purchase and sale of mutton and lamb. The present irregularities and anomalies, both of supply and demand, are due largely to lack of foresight on the part of the breeder and feeder.

5. Definite information is needed as to the requirements of the best markets for wool. This, when provided, should include a full explanation regarding the care of the fleece of the sheep's back, on the shearing floor and up to the time it leaves the farm.

6. Wool exhibits should, we think, be provided at a number of the more important exhibitions of the country. Such exhibits elsewhere have proved to be an excellent means of enlightening farmers on all matters connected with wool production and market requirements. So far as possible, the exhibits should be in charge of demonstrators fully qualified to give to wool growers needed information upon these and related subjects.

7. The educational facilities offered by the agricultural colleges in the Dominion are such as to make it desirable that advantage be taken of them to create amongst the students a special interest in the trade in wool. We would suggest that the Department provide these colleges with carefully arranged wool displays. We would urge also that they co-operation be secured and that they be earnestly requested to include in their courses on sheep husbandry a set of lectures on the structure of the wool fibre and on the scientific production of wool.

8. Demonstration farms should be established in various parts of the Dominion. Each farm should furnish a practical example of the advantages to be derived from the keeping of sheep under the conditions obtaining in the particular district in which it is located. The purchase of land would in few cases be necessary, rented farms being quite as suitable for the proposed undertaking. The sheep industry is in need of practical office lessons and nothing less will serve. The Live Stock Commissioner's expectation that these farms would be self-supporting is a strong argument in their favor and should further commend their practical value to the shepherds of every province. The farms should be so situated as to effectively illustrate the advantages of sheep keeping, as for example—in profitably utilizing rough land, in fostering a more intensive practice on mixed farms, in assisting to clear western lands of weeds and in bringing into more productive use the rich valleys of British Columbia, where an early land development is awaited.

9. The further distribution, in isolated districts, of pure bred sheep, especially rams, should be undertaken in a comprehensive way. Canadian breeders have neglected the home trade and suitable breeding stock needs to be wisely directed into channels where it will more effectively serve the interests of our own farmers.

10. Co-operative summer grazing should be encouraged, especially in the eastern provinces, as previously suggested in our report.

11. Co-operative marketing of sheep and lambs should be organized in specially selected districts in order to ascertain the feasibility of the more general adoption of such a system. Our investigation leads us to strongly favor this method of marketing.

12. The settlement of abandoned farms where sheep raising could be made a specialty should be encouraged. In order to render this practicable, it would be necessary that the land be cleared of stones, underbrush and much useless timber. For such lands the farmers, to be paid back in annual installments, extending over a period of years, would enable them to effect the necessary improvements. Lack of their initiative in opening up these abandoned areas for settlement, much useful land will, in all probability, continue to lie idle.

13. Realizing that the enactment and enforcement of dog legislation may be undertaken solely by the provincial governments, we would suggest that the Minister represent to these governments the necessity for the rigorous enforcement of the existing dog laws or for their amendment, if such were required. Suppression of the evils attendant upon the attacks by dogs would remove the greatest obstacle to successful sheep raising and restore a sense of security and confidence to this important industry. After careful study, we have come to the conclusion that a regular tax should be imposed upon the owners of dogs, the annual payment of which would place needed restriction upon the maintenance of this important industry.

In those provinces where sheep suffer through the attacks of coyotes and other harmful wild animals, we would recommend that the enactments providing for the suppression of these pests be systematically enforced. The special assistance should be afforded to sheep breeders' associations to enable them to forward experimental consignments of wool to British markets in order to test the advantages to be gained through such shipments. Careful arrangements should be made to ensure having the wool in the best possible condition, not only in the case of such as may be selected for experimental shipments, but in regard to all consignments intended for sale in Great Britain.

15. After carefully studying the various methods of handling wool in successful sheep farming countries elsewhere, we have come to the conclusion that Canadian wool should be handled on co-operative lines, so as to combine the advantages possessed by the marketing system of Great Britain with those secured through the organization of Australasia. This may be obtained through the adoption of approved methods recently undertaken in other countries. As a means to this end, central wool depots or receiving stations should be established in suitable localities for collecting, warehousing, grading and classing Canadian grown wool for shipment to the home of the export trade.

We have elsewhere referred to the great influx of settlers to the west, and the consequent pressure to be by the sheepmen. While this immigration has apparently been an advantage to the country generally, it has broken up the range holdings to such an extent that the sheep population has not only decreased to a serious extent but many sheepmen have been driven out of business entirely, while the few who now remain are disheartened and discouraged.

A very important branch of live stock is therefore likely to disappear during the next few years, unless some measures are undertaken to prevent it. In view of this fact, we have taken the liberty of bringing these circumstances to the notice of the Department.

There is an abundance of range country still left which, if the right of grazing on crown lands were permitted and a slight alteration of the terms of leasehold allowed, would maintain increased herds of sheep for the ranch men still in business. Being confident of the advantages to be attained through the grazing of sheep over this largely unoccupied range, we have prepared a list of suggestions with the view of securing for the rancher more extended rights in this territory. This list, together with the details of our special investigation of the question, have been placed in the hands of the Live Stock Commissioner who has given us the assurance that the matter will receive the consideration which its importance deserves. Although the details of this part of our investigation, pending a fuller study of the whole subject, have been purposely left out of our report, the sheep men of Alberta and Saskatchewan can rest assured that their interests have not been overlooked.

TARIFF REFORMS

It is not yet a year since Mr. Wilson was elected President of the United States. It is only a week over six months since he actually became President as the inauguration services on the fourth of March last. In so short a time he has all but accomplished the two largest tasks that confronted him. He managed the task of urging it through the Senate with threats mingled with persuasive arguments. The magnitude of the task is only realized when one recalls the number of governments that have been elected for a like purpose and failed to hold to their purpose against the special interests that immediately lined up against them. Mr. Wilson, as soon as he was inaugurated President, called Congress together in extra session. He then presented them in a message that confined their legislative efforts during the session to a consideration of the tariff and the imposition of an income tax; when a split in the party ranks threatened, he coerced the recalcitrant into line by the use of the presidential power over certain classes of patronage; when there was fear of a financial panic he issued a very bold threat to the financiers; he for the first time in many years maintained a presidential office in the capital—all that it was in the power of his office to do he has done. He who is nominally only an executive head of the government has played almost as large a part in passing the bill through the legislative branches of the government as would the premier in a country where the cabinet is responsible to parliament, as in Canada. This is a very significant fact, for Mr. Wilson was known before his election to lean toward a closer connection between the cabinet and the legislature.

After the bill had passed the House of Representatives with its average of twenty-four per cent. reduction, it went to the Senate, which, to the astonishment of the country, added to the free list, and made further reductions to such an extent that before it left their hands the whole average rate had been decreased another four per cent. For one week before the passage of the Bill, it was predicted that it would not pass with a majority of more than a single vote, if it got through at all, as the Democrats had only a majority of three and two Senators from Louisiana were certain to vote against it. On the last day, however, and at the very last moment, during the vote on the third reading, the supporters of the Bill won a dramatic victory. When the name of Senator La Follette was reached on the roll, he voted in the affirmative. A moment later when the name of Senator Pendergast was called he also voted for the Bill. These are the two former Republicans who had been expected to vote against the tariff. The significance of this is that it represents a large section of the people of the country. Mr. La Follette was the logical leader of the Progressives. He had expected to get the nomination for President, and undoubtedly would have won it, had Mr. Roosevelt not "thrown his hat into the ring." The Bill, therefore, as it passed the Senate, may be taken to be on the whole satisfactory to the west: to farmers who started the Progressive movement. This is a great victory for the Democrats. Having passed both Houses the Bill is before the conferees appointed by the House of Representatives and those appointed by the Senate, so that some compromise can be arranged between the schedules of the House and Senate Bills. An agreement is expected to be reached before the end of the week and the President's signature affixed.

The Electric Railway

Some interested parties are taking The Western Globe articles on the promoters of the Lacombe and Blindman Valley Electric Railway for their text and are stating that this paper is "knocking" the project.

The Western Globe has never by word or deed attempted to knock the Electric Railway. The editor, in common with every citizen of Lacombe, recognizes the fact that this line would be of inestimable value to the town and the entire west country, and should be built.

What The Western Globe has "knocked" and will continue to knock, is the very unbusinesslike and silly manner in which the present holders of the charter have gone about the business of securing the money for the road, and their lack of any sensible plan for performing the work. It is easy enough to come here and tell us that they are going to build the road and ask us to assist them, but when you ask any member of the company how they are going to proceed you immediately have him up a tree. Not one of the company has the slightest idea how much the road is going to cost. Not one member of the company knows how or where they are going to secure power to run the line. At one time it is going to be electric, at another time it is going to be gasoline-electric; and now it is the intention of the company to bore for natural gas with which to generate electricity from a steam plant. And these men expect that intelligent people will take them seriously.

What The Western Globe has contended is that unless this firm of promoters show signs of life, and prove to the satisfaction of our business men that they have the money in sight with which to construct the line, the renewal of their charter be cancelled. At their present rate of progress they are perhaps keeping others from building this much-needed line.

Had it not been for the agitation of The Western Globe this company would not have made a move this year, but they have now come to the conclusion that the citizens of this district have sized them up and that to save themselves they must make a move of some kind and thus restore confidence.

If this firm has command of the money, and has a businesslike scheme for the construction of the road, The Western Globe and every citizen of Lacombe and district will be with them wholeheartedly.

The promoters should bear in mind that they are dealing with hard-headed business men when they deal with the farmers of Alberta, and that hot air only goes for a very short time.

And when this firm of promoters approach the government for a guarantee of interest or bonds, they will be asked many embarrassing questions, and will have to be prepared to answer them. They will probably be asked if they have secured the right-of-way, they will have to tell where they are going to get their power, they will have to show that they have considerable fifty-acre tracts at their command; they will have to show that they have competent railway men at their back; they will have to prove that the line will be a paying proposition; and very likely the government will want to know how much the line is going to cost; in fact, they will be expected to know what they are talking about.

None of the above information has been given to the people of this district, and if Messrs. Gibson, Taylor and Strath have it in their possession it will do them a lot of good to lay the public in on it. The day when men are expected to take hot air in place of facts is past. This simple, child-like faith has gone out of business in every-day life.

And now don't go into hysterics and say that The Western Globe is "knocking" the electric railway. A railway of some kind is needed for the settlers of the splendid country west of Lacombe, and an electric line would be of the greatest benefit to our town; in fact a hundred per cent. better for us, than an extension of any of the steam lines. We are for the building of the electric line heart and soul. But we refuse to be a party to the gulling of the public by charter mongers. And we are not from Missouri.

To the Editor:

Minneapolis, Sept. 16, 1913.—I read with much interest your editorial in your issue of the 10th inst. on this subject, and think your view of the matter entirely consistent with the facts. I also was an enthusiastic supporter of the project and was very willing to pass the franchise into the hands of promoters who were loud in their assertions of their ability and anxiety to build the road. Their agents told us they had millions of money at their command, and this money they were anxious to invest at the earliest possible moment wherever the investment promised a fair return. When it was evident a year ago that they would allow the franchise to lapse and would have to ask for an extension, my faith in their promises went below zero, and the attempt to get the necessary $125,000.00 subscribed entirely by the settlers in the Blindman Valley and the business men and citizens of Lacombe, confirmed my belief in their insincerity. But if I understand present conditions, there is no company existing with authority to let contracts or do any other business, for the Act not only provides for a subscription list of ten per cent. of the capital stock, but also that one per cent. of this subscribed stock shall be paid in before a working board of directors and company officers can be elected. This was the snag struck by the provisional board of directors, and believe me we could not raise this $12,500 in cash, we were perfectly willing to turn the franchise over to parties who believed they could do it.

Have the present promoters collected and placed in the bank the $12,500? Have they, after doing this, called a meeting of the stockholders and organized a company, electing a contingent of company officers and a working board of directors? If not, they have no authority to let contracts or incur any debt except such as they intend to pay by subscription or by money from their own pockets, as was done when we secured the preliminary survey of the line. If, without legal organization, they are pretending to work as a company, they are working fraudulently and neither in good faith nor according to the Act, from which alone authority is derived. I am quite fully convinced now (and I do not claim the idea as original with myself) that the promoters never had any idea of building the road, but were merely stalling for some one or more of the large corporations who desired to prevent the building of it, and the present pretense of beginning work is in furtherance of the same object. I cannot comprehend, nor can I think that any reputable citizen or business man in that vicinity would work to thwart the building of the road in the interest of any corporation, but with their alleged millions to invest, their constant delay for no good reason, and the place they have chosen for beginning work evidently to impress the farmers in the Valley, I can see no other explanation so far as some of the promoters are concerned.

I am with you in the hope that the farmers and business men so deeply interested in the construction of a railway west from Lacombe will no longer be hoodwinked and humbugged, and that they will vigorously oppose any extension of the franchise to the present so-called promoters.

HOUSING OF HOGS. Above is the title of an illustrated booklet issued by the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, and as it is distributed free it would be well worth while if our local hog raisers would send in for a copy. On Thursday evening as the five-year-old daughter of Martin Keeton was running with a pair of scissors, she slipped and fell, the blades entering her body just above the pit of the stomach. The striking of a rib was all that prevented the instrument piercing the child's stomach, but as it was they left a wound about 1 1/2 inches deep. Dr. Shore was called, the wound dressed, and at time of writing the little sufferer is improving nicely.

WHO WILL GET THE WESTERN MARKET

A St. Paul paper said in a recent issue: "The Western Canadian Provinces, which are now attracting hundreds of thousands of settlers annually, offer perhaps the greatest market in the world for manufactured goods of nearly every description. During the customs fiscal year ending March 31, 1913, Canada imported from the United States goods valued at $440,156,856. During the same period the value of imports from Great Britain was $138,669,429. It may be taken as correct that the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are receiving annually over 75 per cent. of manufactured goods which are manufactured elsewhere."

About the same time Governor Foss, of Massachusetts, deplored the fact that the Canadian tariff prevented the American manufacturer from absorbing nearly all the Canadian manufacturing. He made the statement, which is perfectly true, that owing to the customs duties imposed, American manufacturers are compelled to establish branches in Canada which has the effect of buying up Canadian cities and increasing the value of Canadian farm lands and farm products. He argued that if the tariff wall were removed the business would go to assist American cities and American farmers.

Of course we have no intention of giving our neighbors to the south such an opportunity. Many of us can remember when we did not have that tariff wall and the American cities and farmers flourished at our expense. But for thirty-five years we have been doing more wisely, and as the article referred to above states, we have prospered and grown since that date at a relatively faster rate than our neighbors.

But we have another problem today. Thirty-five years ago the West was of little importance. Today it is of sufficient importance for this St. Paul paper to style it the most important market for manufactured goods in the world. Who is going to supply this market? If the United States gets the opportunity it will add untold wealth to the middle west states. It will mean a boon for their great manufacturing cities. The time is not far distant when that trade will net a half million dollars annually. Just think what it will mean for those States if they can capture the prize. It means wealth untold. But Great Britain is also after the prize. It is true that her manufacturers do not see the immense possibilities as do our closer neighbor, but they too, are after our trade. If they can get it, it will mean wonders to some of the great industrial cities in the old land.

Eastern Canada too puts in a bid. But the eastern manufacturer is not so anxious for our custom as he was. He has discovered that there is a market nearer home that is about big enough for him. While he is after the western market, some one gets in on the home market. If he can have his home market undisturbed he will not fret about the western market.

Who then is to have it? Eastern Canada can supply it only in part. Great Britain has the next best thing, as the boys nearly all we have to sell. Surely our best customer should have first consideration. The United States comes last although lying so close, because the people there want to sell to but not buy from us. To give it to them would mean that the goods would be coming north, but the money would be going south, a constant drain of money from our country. What would make then fat would make us lean.

But why not keep the money here? Why not manufacture our own goods? Those who desire our markets have told us that it will not pay. But it does pay. There are now many manufacturing plants in the west, and they not only pay but they are rapidly increasing the size of their plants. We will not argue the question here, but it is simply nonsense to say that it will not pay. It is not the money we make that makes us rich, but the money we save. It is not the money that comes into the country that makes a country rich, but that money that is kept in it. Though we grow ten times our present amount of wheat and ten times the present number of cattle we now produce; if we spent all the money outside the country, the country would be no richer. It is time for the west to begin to save; it is time to begin to keep the money at home. We must produce as much as possible of the raw material of all kinds and then manufacture it in our own Province. We can not produce here we will ship in its crudest form and do all the work on it here. What cannot be done in the West we will seek in the east from those whose interests are bound up with ours. If we do this we go to the mother land, and beyond that to any place where we can get what we need. But first of all keep at home every possible dollar. The west is the place to manufacture the goods of the west. We have very friendly feelings for St. Paul and other cities of the United States, but just the same we would rather see a few hundred millions go to build cities in Alberta than in any other place.

The implicit confidence that many people have in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is founded on their experience in the use of that remedy and their knowledge of the many remarkable cures of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery that it has effected. ## VISITING SCOT GREATLY IMPRESSED.

That there is widespread alarm in Scotland over the emigration of many of its best citizens to Canada, was the statement made by Maurice I. Walker, representative of the National Bible Society of Scotland in China, Haing, China. He is on his way to China from Scotland after a year's furlough in the Old Country.

"In every town, city and village you hear the same story," said Mr. Walker. "While it is a good thing for Canada that these highly desirable immigrants are coming here, the situation is getting serious in Scotland. Some villages are becoming practically depleted and, in fact, one village lost all its population, every one of the residents coming to this country."

"Ten years ago when the first big egress of settlers was made from Scotland to Canada it was predicted that they would gradually come back from the land of ice and snow, but this country has proved kind to the Scottish immigrants, and when any of them do return they go back with a message of the countless opportunities offered in Canada, especially in Alberta and British Columbia. The result is that the influx into this country of Scotch immigrants increases and will continue to increase for years to come."

"Some unscrupulous persons have taken advantage of the existence of the recent money stringency which has most seriously affected the newer parts of this country, to endeavor to persuade the Scotch people that this country is bankrupt and that it is overcrowded and overdone. But the magnificent crops and general prosperity of Canada gives the lie to such irresponsible talk. I

POLITICAL DEPRIVITY.

A Saskatchewan paper, it appears, is now learning what all of them in time come to know. It is that standards of political morality are remarkable low.

The Lloydminster Times refers to the ease with which professional politicians seem to be able to "put it over" the people in connection with promises of new railways. It recalls how a leading Liberal of that community on the eve of the last Saskatchewan election, with the Minister of Agriculture sitting on the platform, produced what was said to be a railway map and on it pointed out a G.T.P. branch line which would be running into the town in a few months if the people voted right.

"We subsequently heard a party worker boasting," adds the Times, "that the map had been drawn out in a local real estate office, and that the whole business was intended to focus the electors."

"The gravity of the whole matter is that nobody appears to be seriously worried at the situation. In England such chicanery would drive any party from power; here it is met with a casual shrug of the shoulders and the remark: 'Well, what's the odds? They all do it, and if we don't we shall only be left.'"

And even worse than this is the prevalent idea that the public consciousness is so dormant that any man who draws attention to this abomination in the body politic is actuated by personal motives and not by any desire for the public good.

Storie - Slaughter

A very pretty house wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, September 17th, at 12 o'clock, by the Rev. Tate, of Clive, when Miss Birdie Slaughter was united in marriage to Mr. Wallace Storie, of Edmonton. The bride was well known in Lacombe and district, having spent her school days here, and she has the best wishes of her many friends.

The ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philo P. Slaughter, of Bentley. Just before the ceremony a song was rendered by Miss Saint, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. C. A. Putland.

The bride was exquisitely gowned in pure white satin draped with chiffon, and wore a long bridal veil with wreath of Orange Blossoms. She also carried a bouquet of white carnations and maidenhair fern. The bride walked to the door of the room with two little girls, Miss Whitworth and Miss Suggett, whom she kissed and left and entered the room from the altar. The father of the bride, Mr. Storie, gave last Sunday evening in the Methodist Church. For an hour and twenty minutes she fully held the attention and interest of the large congregation assembled to hear her, with an eloquent and forceful address. She began by showing that the liquor traffic is not a well meaning business that incidentally does harm, but exposed the intention of the traffic by incident after incident, proving that the maker and seller of liquor deliberately plan to form an appetite for liquor in the young, and calculate on the ruin of men and women as a means of putting money into their own pocket. Its only excuse for existence is that it makes money for those engaged in it. It is the only business in the world that is tolerated which aims to take from a man all that he has and to give nothing in return. The main support of the traffic is the moderate drinker. To show its finished products would ruin the traffic. Very many of the moderate drinkers whose example uphold the traffic afterward become degraded sots from its ruin. She urged the signing of a pledge by every one as a safeguard against the use of glass, which is the usual downward starting point. The speaker showed vividly the effect of alcohol of succeeding generations. Ninety-five per cent. of criminals are the children of drinking parents, as also are the great majority of the deformed, blind, etc. Alcohol is the direct cause of most of the suffering in the world.

The speaker next showed that the blame for the traffic is not to be placed on those engaged in it, but on the public sentiment that allows it. The way to remove the evil is by an overpowering public sentiment that will totally remove the whole traffic, and the responsibility for this rests in part on each individual.

Mrs. Silbaugh also gave addresses to both the Methodist and Presbyterian Sunday schools, to a gathering of women only in the Presbyterian Church in the afternoon, and to the children of the school on Monday morning.

Able Address

Seldom has a Lacombe audience listened to such an able address as Mrs. Jackson Silbaugh, of Seattle, National Organizer for the United States of The Women's Christian Temperance Union, gave last Sunday evening in the Methodist Church. ## Market Prospects

Market prospects as affected by the new United States tariff is the subject of able articles in the Winnipeg Free Press of recent issues. The following portion is pertinent to the interests of our customers, and we consider the new tariff of such great importance that we take this way to draw attention to it. Since the Free Press article was written, it is attempted to make wheat free, and not subject to a countervailing duty.

"The Maritime Provinces" will profit by free fish and lower duties on vegetables and fruit; Quebec and Ontario by free cattle, free milk and butter and lower rates on barley, hay and fruit; British Columbia by free lumber. Coming nearer home it may be worth while to consider somewhat more closely the probable effects of the new tariff on conditions in the three Prairie Provinces. Alberta, it is to be noted, does not occupy the same relation to the United States markets as do Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and will probably profit exceptionally for reasons set forth in a statement made to the Free Press by George Lane, the well-known Alberta cattleman and farmer. Mr. Lane says:

"If the United States tariff goes through in its present form it will revolutionize trade for our farmers on oats, barley and cattle. With about three million people in Washington and Oregon, this is our natural market for trade, for they produce very few cattle and only limited quantities of oats and barley. It is my opinion that they import 75 per cent. of these coarse grains and they are at present bringing cattle from as far away as Colorado and Wyoming, which gives Alberta a great advantage in the railroad haul. I predict that it will add $7.00 a head to the price of our beef cattle within thirty days, and in addition will give a great market for oats and barley. It is my honest conviction that this country will control the markets, particularly in cattle, oats and barley, in Washington and Oregon. All along the Pacific Coast they need these goods, and this is the nearest point for them to obtain them; then we will have St. Paul, Minneapolis and Chicago to fall back on, which must be an advantage; and certainly Western Canada can hold the Alaskan trade, which is a large one, in cattle, and is principally controlled from Seattle. The proposed United States tariff should give great confidence to western producers, and it will enhance the value of farm lands to a considerable extent."

Alberta's extensive coal mines will also find a large and ever-growing market in the States immediately adjoining to the south. EFFECT ON OATS. The reduction of the duty on oats in the United States to 6 cents must prove an advantage to the Western Canadian farmer. Even at the old tariff of 15 cents a bushel a considerable trade was done. In 1912 there were exports in oats from all parts in Western Canada to the United States to the extent of $145,670.36. Of course, this is a very small amount, but if this amount of business could be done at the extremely high tariff, with a tariff of 6 cents the Western Canadian farmer comes very close to the American market, as it must always be borne in mind that our oats are two pounds heavier per standard bushel than those of the United States, and, as a matter of fact, the Western oats are very frequently from 3 to 6 pounds heavier. The American standard bushel is 32 pounds, the standard Canadian bushel is 34 pounds. It is quite common for Western oats to weigh 36 and 38 pounds, and from some of the northern sections, Yorkton, and many points along the main line of the Canadian Northern, oats weighing 40 to 42 pounds are by no means a rarity. Take prices at the moment: No. 3 C.W. oats are 34½ cents a bushel in Fort William, while No. 3 white oats are 39½ cents a bushel in Minneapolis. Allowing for the difference in the weight of a bushel, this leaves a spread of "a little over 7 cents. Assuming an equal freight rate, this would allow of Canadian oats being sold in Minneapolis at present market rates; but, while perhaps the margin is too narrow at the moment to be tempting, the fact that it is even possible, especially in view of the superiority of the Canadian Western oats, will be a great advantage in holding the Western market steady.

The United States has a small oat crop this year, and that, coupled with the shortage in corn, is likely to tend to high prices for, practically, all coarse grains. Chicago oats on the option for December delivery are 44½ cents per bushel, while Canadian oats at Winnipeg for December delivery are only 37½ cents per bushel.

BARLEY. In the matter of barley, while the duty is still high at 15 cents, it brings the American market much closer to the Canadian producer. During 1912, $453,470.16 worth of barley was exported to the United States from Western Canada at the 30 cents duty. The American malsters have proved that the Canadian barley is all right for malting, despite assertions to the contrary which have been made by interested parties. In the past Manitoba has been the principal producer of barley, but it has been grown carelessly, very frequently a little attention paid to the color; yet even with this form of production the yields have been high and the color in a normal year very good. This year, owing to the late season, Manitoba has seeded more barley than usual, and while some of its crops are light, there are plenty of crops that will go 40 bushels to the acre and not a few that will go as high as 60, while, where barley has been planted following corn or any hoed crop, as high as 60 and 65 bushels have been threshed. In Southern Alberta, where attention has been given to the crop and it has been planted on good summer-fallow or has been grown under irrigation, the yields are enormous and the color is excellent. Southern Saskatchewan also could make a complete success of barley growing by the exercise of a little care.

At the present time barley in Duluth is quoted at 54 to 72 cents, according to grade, while barley on the Winnipeg market is quoted from 43½ cents for feed to 48½ cents for No. 3. Our No. 4 barley, which is quoted at 46 cents, would be equal in quality to the barley which is bringing 64 cents at Duluth, while No. 3 Western Canadian barley would certainly be a sufficient high grade to permit of payment of 15 cents duty, and some in on spread between 46 and 72.

FLAX.

No. 1 North Western Canadian flax is quoted at $1.29; Duluth flax at $1.49. There is no question that, comparing the best quality of Canadian flax to flax of similar grade at Duluth, there is a direct spread of 20½ cents, which would certainly allow for a payment of 15 cents duty and still have a margin of profit in favor of the Duluth price; but while prices from time to time might vary and work in the opposite direction, the solid advantage to the Western producer is that a wider market is brought closer to him and in this way his local market will be less subject to change and depreciation.

CATTLE AND HOGS.

The advantage to the live stock producer in Western Canada of the abolition of the duty on cattle and hogs is too apparent to require much comment. It is quite probable that Western Canada has not an enormous number of cattle or hogs to export this year, but the American markets are very short. The Eastern Canadian markets are also short, and for whatever the Western producer has to offer he has the choice of three markets instead of two. To the Alberta ranchers particularly, their market is so close to Washington and Oregon as to do away with any fear of undue shrinkage in transportation. In the matter of hogs, if it should prove that Alberta has more than the trade can readily dispose of along their usual lines, the hogs can be slaughtered and shipped in salt to the Eastern markets, where, at present, there is more demand than on the American side; but the fact that the American market is open will compel the Eastern buyer to regulate his price and keep it up to the point where there will be no temptation to the Western producer to ship across the line rather to ship East.

WHEAT.

As for wheat the imposition of a countervailing duty of 10 cents a bushel by the United States will, under normal conditions, keep Canadian wheat out of the United States market; but there have been periods in the past and they may recur, when, especially for damaged grains, the United States market would be reachable, despite the handicap of such a tax. It can be safely predicted that the farmers in Western Canada will demand the abolition of the Canadian duties on wheat and wheat products. If this is done the United States market will be made free to Canadian wheat. There is, in this matter of the wheat duty, the possibility of very serious trouble for the Dominion Government.

In vegetables, butter and cheese, milk and cream the change in duty will be of no immediate value since not enough of these are produced, as yet, to meet the local demand. Fish exports from the Province are already limited only by the available supply and the provision of free fish will not increase the business. The direct interest of Western Canada is in the new markets for grains, cattle and meats. The lowering of the tariffs on coarse grains and the throwing open of the markets to cattle and hogs will increase the competition for the produce of Western farms, and the keener competition the better the price to the producer. The general result to Western Canada will be beneficial to a degree that few realize.
